Ramon Escobar coordinates U.S. government bilateral cooperation on energy, economic, environment, and labor issues, developed and implemented the U.S.-Colombia Information and Communications Technology steering group — an initiative launched by President Obama — to help Colombia leverage technology to improve the lives of low income communities and coordinated interagency strategies to advance a number of bilateral economic priorities, including by encouraging more significant action on issues impacting Colombia's accession to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.