Course Description:
History of Wisconsin Indians will examine the experience of the Native Peoples of Wisconsin with respect to their cultures. Properly stated, this is class pursues Ethnohistory - using the cultural framework of Native Communities themselves to interpret the historical record. Because some of the Native Nations that are located within the contemporary political boundaries of Wisconsin originated in other localities, the period prior to Wisconsin state-hood will take a wider geographical scope. This, along with discussion of treaties with the US and the contexts in which they were made will help us to understand the political and social rights exercised by Wisconsin tribes today, and the complex issues they still face.

Course Objectives:
By the end of this course, students will:
1) understand ethnohistory as a methodology
2) develop an understanding of the cultural context of the histories of Wisconsin Indian Tribes
3) develop an understanding of impact of colonial governments, missionaries, and settlers on Wisconsin Indian Tribes
4) develop an understanding of the historical context of the sovereignty of Wisconsin Indian Tribes

6) develop improved research and writing skills

Research Paper - Due Monday April 16
For this assignment, you will choose a contemporary issue facing a Wisconsin Native Nation (education, health care, gaming, economic development, or language preservation, etc) and discuss the historical events and contexts that gave rise to current circumstances. The paper should include mention of how the Native People in question are addressing this issue. You have the option of submitting a typed outline of your paper including its thesis on Mar. 14 for 5 pts extra credit awarded toward the midterm exam. (Graduate students must submit a typed outline and 5 page historiography for their paper as part of their midterm exam grade) This paper should be typed, double-spaced, 10 pages in length with one-inch margins and 12 point font. (Graduate student papers should be 25 pages in length and demonstrate graduate level critical analysis of primary and secondary sources contributing to an original thesis). Pages should be numbered, and endnotes and bibliography should be included. Chicago style is the approved format for the paper. History majors in particular may wish to get a copy of Kate L. Turabian’s book A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, 7th ed. You can also find a great deal of the endnote and bibliographic formatting examples from her book at http://www.isr.bucknell.edu/img/assets/6535/turabian.pdf
Exams: Midterm Monday, Mar 12
Both exams for this course will be take-home short-answer and essay papers. Exams will be distributed one week prior to the due date. Exams, while restricted to the use of class assigned texts for your resources, must still conform to all formatting rules for papers identified above for the research paper. (Graduate students will receive a graduate level exam for this assignment that focuses on methodological issues. As noted above, as part of this exam, graduate students must submit a typed outline and five-page historiography on their research topic.)

Response Papers - Every Wednesday
Each Wednesday, a one page response paper addressing the readings assigned for that week is due. These are informal papers designed to help prepare you to discuss the texts in class. Please feel free to share first impressions, and unsubstantiated gut instincts about the texts and their writers as well as to pose questions to which you do not have the answer. These assignments need not conform to any particular essay format. I ask only that you use complete sentences and turn it in typed, double spaced, in 12 point font with one inch margins. These assignments will be collected at the end of each class session, so that you may refer to them for ideas, and to remind yourself in class of questions that came to you while you were engaged with the reading. There may, at times, be questions that you are uncomfortable raising in class, but would still like an answer to. Include these as well, and I will do my best to give you a complete response. These papers are not assigned a letter grade. Either they are complete, or they are not. Late papers will be given one half credit, unless there are extenuating circumstances. Since the value of these papers is to help you be prepared for class discussion, their value is greatly diminished if they are turned in late. Response papers will not be due the week of the midterm exam and the week the research paper is due. (Graduate Student response papers must indicate the thesis of the articles assigned and assess the strengths and weaknesses of the historical arguments they contain.)

Class Participation:
Although the majority of this course will consist of lecture presentation, I encourage students to ask questions for clarification as needed. Further, every Wednesday, the last half hour of class will be devoted to discussion of the week’s readings. Since this is a larger class, I don’t expect every student to participate every week, I do expect all students to participate on a regular basis. This discussion period should help not only to clarify the readings in general, but also, by focusing in on important issues in the readings, should assist you in preparing for exams.

General Stuff:
You are expected to be aware of the deadlines listed above and observe them. Late assignments (research paper) will be penalized 5% per class day, in other words, one full grade per week. Response papers will be given one half credit if received late. The midterm and final will not be accepted late unless there is a major emergency such as a UFO abduction that caused you to “loose” the entire space of time you had the assignment. Please see our kind counseling staff for the revealing post abduction hypnosis sessions. Papers should be submitted in one of the following ways: a) turned in to me in class; b) placed in my mail box in Holton Hall; c) sent to me electronically; or d) handed to me during office hours. Do not slip papers under my door, as I will not be responsible for losing them in that case. If you are submitting work by any method other than handing it directly to me please make a copy of the work for yourself in case for some reason your assignment does not make it into his hands.
