CALL FOR C21 GRADUATE FELLOWS
Deadline: Wednesday, August 30, 2017, at 5:00 p.m.

TWO FELLOWSHIPS AVAILABLE
The Center for 21st Century Studies (C21) has two openings for graduate fellows for the 2017–18 year. The fellowships are open to doctoral students and will be 50 percent appointments. Working as a C21 graduate fellow provides doctoral students the opportunity to meet visiting scholars, participate in all C21 functions, and help with outreach and research initiatives in critical, public, and digital humanities. See position description below for more information.

ABOUT THE CENTER
The Center for 21st Century Studies (C21) at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee leads the way in imagining, defining, and creating the burgeoning field of 21st century studies, focusing on the intersection of the humanities, arts, and sciences (social and natural) with issues of compelling concern. C21 organizes its research and public programs around three branches of the humanities: critical, public, and digital. Each year C21 constitutes a group of five UWM faculty fellows, and at least one UW System fellow, whose research falls into one of these three areas. Nationally and internationally known scholars are brought to campus to address the topic of the year’s research in seminars, lectures, and conferences.

APPLICATION PROCESS
Please submit the following materials to C21 Director, Richard Grusin, via email at C21@uwm.edu:

- a one-to-two–page cover letter that articulates why you are interested in the position, what your relevant experience is, and how the position connects to your research and professional interests
- a curriculum vitae
- names and contact information for two faculty references

APPLICATION DEADLINE: WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 30, 2017, AT 5 P.M.
Position Description
Graduate Fellow

Title: Graduate Fellow

Position: Project Assistant, Doctoral Level

Job Description: The C21 graduate fellows participate in the management and programs of the Center. The graduate fellows organize, attend, and help publicize C21 events; assist in event planning and preparation; and aid in the development of new and ongoing C21-sponsored research and programming. Responsibilities include event promotion and logistics (flyering, videotaping lectures, prepping lecture rooms, setting up and breaking down receptions, etc.); providing content for assigned areas of the C21 website; contributing to the C21 blog; developing and running graduate-student focused events; designing promotional flyers; assisting the director and faculty fellows with research projects, proofreading scholarly manuscripts, and helping faculty fellows and the C21 director as needed. On occasion, office work (answering phone, errands) may also be required. The ideal candidates should have a dissertation project that relates either to public or digital humanities. Technological skills to maintain and help grow C21’s online presence—graphic design, web design (HTML/CSS), multimedia, A/V—are also desirable.

Unit: Center for 21st Century Studies

Salary: To be determined—up to allowed project assistant maximum for doctoral students

Appointment Period: Nine months (university contractual period)

Percent of Time: 50 percent (graduate students must enroll in six graduate credit hours)

Job Summary: 20 hours per week. Assistance with, and attendance at, all programs and events required. Technological skills and graphic design experience preferred. Event planning and organization preferred. Intellectual interest in 21st century studies preferred. Some evening work.
