Sustaining Cities: Urban Lost and Found

Hefter Center University of Wisconsin–Milwaukee
April 17-18 2009

Big, rich, and first world: Cities fitting these descriptions have garnered much attention in their efforts to be sustainable. Yet how are other communities faring? This conference examines the impact of development on big cities but also on small towns. It considers urban redevelopment of old industrial cores as well as typically unexamined spaces that have become the new nexus of social and cultural interaction.
