Latin Americanist faculty from all disciplines are invited to participate in the Spring 2015 Teaching and Learning Workshop. The workshop is offered in collaboration with the Consortium of Latin American Studies Programs (CLASP), a national organization supporting teaching, outreach and program development. The workshop is intended to build on the cross-disciplinary nature of the NCCLA, bringing together regional scholars to talk about a particular topic or pedagogical tool in an informal, roundtable format.

The focus this year is on the use of films and documentaries to teach about Latin America. On the opening night, we will offer a program tied to the Latin/o American Community of the Quad Cities thinking about the ties between our communities and the Latin/o American context at large. The workshop on Saturday will address the role of film in thinking about Latin/o America through a variety of lenses, and specifically focusing on bridging our 'viewings' between the Social Sciences and the Humanities.

This is NOT a conference where presenters are expected to share a paper. Instead, as noted above, we will talk as a group about these issue areas.

The workshop is hosted by Augustana College, with support from the UW-Milwaukee Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CLACS), a Title VI National Resource Center, funded by the U.S. Department of Education. Registration fee (including Friday dinner and Saturday lunch): $25 (NCCLA members, CLACS members or RFAs) / $40 (non-member fee includes 1-year NCCLA membership); one night lodging for the first 10 participants.

To register, please contact: Julie Kline (UW-Milwaukee) at jkline@uwm.edu

For further workshop details, and local arrangements: Mariano Magalhães (Augustana College) at marianomagalhaes@augustana.edu