A collection of 771 periodicals filmed from the Linen Hall Library in Belfast, which has been accumulating a comprehensive collection of documentation relating to political turmoil in Northern Ireland since the 1960s. The periodicals represent activities and views of all parties to the political conflict, including political organizations, paramilitary groups, and government offices. Additional phases of this microfilming project will cover ephemeral/graphic materials and pamphlet literature.

Description from the Library of Congress