The Soviet Union.
Reproduces reports of the Office of Strategic Services and the State Department, dating from 1941 through 1949. The reports vary in length, and cover a diversity of topics, but focus in particular on subjects such as the Soviet wartime economy, Soviet diplomatic relations with other countries, budgets, and internal political morale and orientation. Both European and Asian parts of the Soviet Union are covered in these analyses. Several of the reports are conjectural, e.g., assessing possible developments in the event of Stalin's death or disability, and the "potentials" of World Communism. Useful for the study of a wide range of issues in Soviet domestic affairs and foreign policy during these years.
