Mike Marzion - Behavior Review Team Representative

Mike Marzion is the Chief of Police here at UWM. Chief Marzion sits on the Behavior Review Team created in 2008 in response to Virginia Tech and Northern Illinois. Jill Hill co-chairs the committee with Chief Marzion. Team members are generally comprised of representatives from Dean of Students, UWM Police Department, Academic Affairs, University Housing, Norris Health Center, Student Accessibility Center, Legal Affairs, Human Resources and a mental health professional. Committee members share information with each other but are not acting as “big brother”. The Behavior Review Team is a place to take concerns and have the ability to communicate across various areas. This group began as a threat assessment team as many groups formed across the county but here at UWM has transitioned to the Behavior Review Team.

Someone on the team typically gets information about a student (ex - threat made to faculty or fellow student). At meeting the specific incident is brought up and discussed and a threat number is assigned to the student. A threat number helps to determine the severity of the situation, how many resources to assign to this situation or how much of a threat this person really is. A committee member is assigned a specific person, often the more applicable to make the intervention and follow through.

The Behavior Review Team meets each week to assess and constantly reassess old and new cases, often moving student assigned threat numbers based on new information or success of intervention.

It is key to remember that everyone has a commitment to our community. Faculty and staff have been placed on the list in the past if a report has been submitted. There is no punitive aspect to someone getting on the list. HR may be the focus for an employment issue. Advisors have been consulted in the past more as an intervention aspect and not as a warning.

The committee cannot and won't target students but will address behaviors that may suggest a safety risk to others. Those include –

- Hostile, aggressive, or otherwise disruptive or disruptive behavior.
- Trouble controlling anger.
- Threats of or references to harming others
- Comments idolizing those who engage in violent behavior

Remember, in case of an emergency on campus dial 9-9-1-1! Don't hesitate to call and don't wait for the BRT. If a plain clothes officer is needed one can be provided.

Spring NFO is taking place on Wednesday, December 15th and will be the same format as summer. Summer feedback was given to the OLT and a separate meeting outside of ACN will be scheduled to discuss further. Summer NFO will be conducted in Zelazo this summer and hopefully in the Union in 2012.
- Enrollment Services
December 2nd an Adult and Transfer Student Information Session will be conducted. Spring applications deadline has been extended from December 1st to December 13th. Enrollment appointment times assigned on PAWS yesterday – November 15th. Students have access to their shopping cart now. An email went out to the students regarding this access to the cart. Waitlist is now running three times (M,W,F) to help reduce the backlog of only running the waitlist weekly. Specific email to students who are not coming off the waitlist will be sent this semester as well. No movement will be made on the waitlist until November 29th, the Monday after registration opens. Bursar – students will have access to tuition for spring a little later than normal on January 3rd.
