CETL is here to support you as we prepare to resume instruction on Monday. We will be on hand to answer your questions, including Saturday, March 28 and Sunday, March 29.

Over 180 instructors have used the self-paced course in Canvas to help them move their courses online: https://uws-td.instructure.com/enroll/HWP3CA

There is also a self-help guide that every instructor should review before Monday: Quick Start Guide to Moving Your Course Online

You can participate from your home in workshops, including this weekend. CETL will connect you using Collaborate Ultra:

1. Move Your Course Online for Spring 2020
2. Synchronous Video Conferencing with Collaborate Ultra

New Open Help Sessions (beginning Monday, March 30)

These 60-minute question and answer sessions are offered via Collaborate Ultra twice daily, Monday through Friday. These informal group sessions are an additional opportunity to get answers to your questions from CETL staff in real-time. There is no formal agenda. Bring your questions related to pedagogy or UWM’s supported technologies for teaching (such as Canvas, My Media, or Collaborate Ultra). Feel free to attend the full session or a portion. To participate in an Open Help Session, please register for any time by clicking the link.

New Online Teaching Partnership Program (for the remainder of the Spring semester)

Social distancing need not limit your options for peer support related to online teaching and learning. CETL will connect you with a partner based on your interest in asynchronous, synchronous, or a mixture of asynchronous and synchronous online teaching. Expertise is not required—partners can support each other and offer ideas, and encouragement.
