

English 233-002 Introduction to Creative Writing
Fall 2022 Semester

Days and Times: Mondays/Wednesdays, 2:30-3:45 p.m.

Location: Bolton Hall, Room 281

Instructor: Sonia Khatchadourian

Instructor's Email Address: soniak@uwm.edu

Course Description

In this course, we will have dual roles as readers and writers. We will have extensive and detailed discussions of the assigned readings and focus on approaches and techniques (in the context of genre, form, and craft) that the authors use to create their work. We will actively respond to these texts by creating our own literary work and by thoughtfully considering how we write. Students will be responsible for sharing poems, stories, and other assigned writing for the class and for small groups throughout the semester. Our course will serve as a space for creative production and experimentation. English 233 satisfies the General Education Requirements (GER) for the Arts.

Required Course Text

Burroway, Janet. Imaginative Writing: The Elements of Craft. Fourth Ed., Pearson, 2015.

This text is available at the UWM e-campus bookstore: <http://uwm.ecampus.com/>