TITLE: Integrating Yoga into Rehabilitation for Effective Spinal Stabilization

DESCRIPTION: Expand your treatment approach to provide more complete and efficient patient care. Integrating yoga into rehabilitation is effective treatment, especially for those patients who don’t fall into the traditional treatment pathways.

You will learn the basics of therapeutic yoga which can be immediately integrated into your current practice to teach effective spinal stabilization. This lab-based continuing education course will include yoga breathing techniques and motor imagery to improve control of trunk stabilizers. We will apply these concepts to yoga pose progressions, with manual cues and partner work incorporated throughout. These techniques for teaching effective postural control of the trunk will enable you to more effectively treat patients with low back pain. Evidence for the use of mind-body exercise will be presented. Practical application of the yoga techniques will be supported by specific case examples.

In addition to learning new skills to improve your patient outcomes, you may be pleasantly surprised by the effects of yoga practice on your own aches and pains!

OUTCOMES:

- List the benefits of yoga as therapeutic exercise
- Describe the basic history of yoga and current popular types of yoga practice
- Summarize current evidence for the use of yoga as part of a rehabilitation program
- Identify key muscle groups utilized for effective postural control of the trunk
- Utilize yoga breathing techniques and motor imagery to improve control of trunk stabilizers
- Apply yoga preparatory exercises and poses for postural and neuromuscular re-education of trunk stabilizers in a variety of functional positions
- Create a practical yoga-based rehabilitation program for effective spinal stabilization

INSTRUCTOR: Katy O’Leary, MPT, RYT

Katy O’Leary earned her Master of Physical Therapy degree at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She is currently a practicing physical therapist in sports medicine at the University of Wisconsin Hospital Sports Rehabilitation Clinics in Madison. In addition, Katy is a 200-hour level Registered Yoga Teacher through the Yoga Alliance national organization. She completed her yoga teacher training in Alignment Yoga with a strong focus on therapeutic yoga techniques.
