UWM Responsible Conduct of Research CITI Training

UWM uses the online CITI RCR training system to satisfy federal responsible conduct for research training requirements.

What is CITI RCR training?

- Training on the rules, regulations, and ethical principles governing responsible conduct of research across disciplinary fields.
- A series of 11 online modules and quizzes; participants must take and pass all modules to receive the required certification of completion.

How do I complete it?

1. Go to the CITI training website.
2. If you are already registered in CITI, log into your existing account by using your UWM Panther ID and password.
3. If you are not registered, create an account. Click "Register" on the right side of the screen. In the Organization Affiliation box, enter "University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee", then select it from the list.
4. You will be prompted to choose from a list of available training courses. Select "RCR Training".
5. For each module there is a choice of two videos; you must watch at least one (although you are encouraged to watch both). If selecting one, choose the one that best fits the type of research you plan to conduct.
6. Complete the training. A score of at least 80% is required on each module before a completion report will be issued.

Frequently Asked Questions

Do I have to do the training all at once?
No, your progress is saved. You can leave it and come back to it over hours, days, or even weeks.

What if I don't receive a high enough score?
You can review any module and retake the quiz until you attain an overall score of at least 80%.

I forgot to print my completion report. What do I do?
You can log back in and print it anytime.

Who needs a copy of my completion report?
Keep a copy for your own records.
