

Connecting with cultures

INDIGENOUS VOICES

“Indigenous Voices: Sharing the Wisconsin Sky” was an important program that expanded cultural understanding across the state and the region.

The program reached more than 850 people at our weekly Friday night showings between March 23 and May 4.

The Eau Claire Children’s Museum purchased a youth version of the show that highlights the Ho-Chunk and Ojibwe Nations. This allowed the program to reach a broader audience and allowed young children to learn more about their culture and make connections to their ancestors
