

From Home to Exile and Back: The Philosophy of María Zambrano

Sponsored by the Department of Spanish and Portuguese

Exiled by the Franco dictatorship after the Spanish Civil War, philosopher María Zambrano (1904-1991) won the prestigious Cervantes Award in 1988. Her work unfolds throughout her Poetic Reason, combining both wisdoms of the heart and the intellect. An overview of her life, including not only her philosophical and political activities, but also her friendships with other intellectuals and artists, will be addressed.

Thursday, November 13
3:00–4:30 p.m.
Bolton B46

presented by Maria João Neves
Universidade Nova de Lisboa

College of Letters & Science