What is Sexual Assault Awareness Month (SAAM)?

In the United States April is Sexual Assault Awareness Month (SAAM). During April people raise awareness about sexual violence and how to prevent it.

You know sexual assault on college campuses is a major problem. But it doesn’t have to be this way. Your sorority or fraternity has a lot to offer — use your leadership and resources to help prevent sexual violence on campus. When your organization promotes equality, respect, and accountability, it helps create a safer space for everyone.

Support an equal and safe campus community:

- Sponsor campus-wide awareness events that focus on consent, healthy sexuality, and bystander intervention.
- Partner with other groups on campus or in the local community that support equality, such as LGBTQ organizations, your campus women’s center, or local rape crisis centers.
- Educate members about what enthusiastic, affirmative consent looks like.
- Step in and speak up when you hear rape jokes, see sexual harassment, or observe situations where consent hasn’t been or cannot be given.
Bystander Intervention Training

On Wednesday, April 26th join us and the Women's Resource Center for a 90-minute training on how to become an active bystander. We will learn the skills necessary to identify and help intervene where community members may be in distress. Examples of this include; alcohol-related issues, hazing, depression, sexual violence/assault, and relationship abuse.

Bystander Intervention Training consists of knowledge and skills:

- Addressing barriers to intervention
- Addressing current issues happening on campus using data collected from Norris Health Center
- Empowering students to become active bystanders, by taking responsibility or taking care of one another
- Strategies for intervention with real life scenarios that a college student could experience using the Step Up! and S.E.E model approaches.
- Being aware of resources on and off campus
- Apply skills in relevant scenarios
