SUPPLEMENTAL INSTRUCTION (SI) EXPECTATIONS

Attendance

- Supplemental Instruction (SI) allows students to drop-in at any of the SI Leader's weekly scheduled sessions. No advanced sign-up is required.

During a session

- SI Leaders are here to assist you in understanding the material, review important concepts, and help you study for the course. They cannot do a homework assignment for you, nor are they able to substitute for attending lectures.
- You are expected to come to the SI session with your course materials and be ready to focus on the subject matter. Please be respectful and engaged with the session, put away smart phones, etc.
- SI Leaders are here for you. If you have specific questions that you want answered or concerns about the material, let the SI Leader know!

Use of Services

- You must currently be enrolled for credit in the course for which you want to attend Supplemental Instruction.
- Students may participate in SI multiple times a week for the same course if they wish (this includes exam review sessions). However, the material covered during SI sessions may not change within a given week.
- We provide group supplemental instruction; we do not guarantee any individual SI sessions.

Confidentiality

Student Success Center retains the right to share information about your participation in tutoring with the UWM administration, faculty, and with your advisor.

If you have any concerns about your tutoring experience, please contact us at ssc@uwm.edu or stop by Bolton 120.
