What is Title IX?

Title IX is a federal law that prohibits sex discrimination.

Title IX requires that schools provide equal opportunities in all areas of education, including admissions, athletics, programs, and activities. Title IX prohibits discrimination in the form of sexual misconduct, including sexual harassment, sexual violence, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking.

Under its own policy, UWM does not tolerate discrimination or harassment which is based on a person’s sex, gender identity or expression, or sexual orientation. (Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment Policy SAAP 5-2)

Examples of behavior prohibited by Title IX and UWM policies

- Requests for sexual favors in exchange for assignments, promotions, or grades
- Unwanted propositions for sexual activity
- Intrusive touching (pats, hugs, squeezes, or pinches), whistling, leering, brushing against the body; or suggestive, insulting, or obscene comments or gestures of a sexual nature
- Unwanted sexual comments about a person’s body, or derogatory comments about a person’s sex, gender identity or expression, or sexual orientation
- Subjecting a person to pornographic or sexually-explicit images without the person’s agreement

Title IX Reporting

If you are the victim of sexual violence and need emergency assistance, please call 911. If you are calling from a campus phone, please dial 9-911.

If you do not need emergency assistance, or if you want to report an act of sexual violence or sexual harassment to UWM in addition to, or instead of the police, you may contact any of the offices on the reverse side of this pamphlet:

- Title IX Coordinator (students and employees)
- Equity/Diversity Services (students, employees, and visitors)
- Dean of Students (students)
- University Housing (students)

You can also file a report through UWM’s online Incident Report form, available at uwm.edu/reportit.

Confidential Resources

If you are unsure whether you want to make a report to the university, you are encouraged to work with a Confidential Resource. Confidential Resources are people you can talk to privately without making a formal report to UWM. You may contact any of the following offices on the reverse side of this pamphlet.

- UWM Victim Advocate (students)
- University Counseling Services (students)
- Any off-campus community-based resources (students, employees, and visitors)

You can learn more about confidential resources through UWM’s Title IX website, at uwm.edu/titleix/get-help/confidential-advocacy-services/.

Anonymous Reporting

Reporting anonymously means that you disclose that you have been the victim of sexual violence without identifying yourself or providing sufficient information to determine your identity or requesting any specific action. You may choose to make an anonymous report if you want someone in the University to be aware of your experience, but do not want to be involved in an administrative investigation. Please note, however, that UWM may be limited in its ability to investigate or respond to the incident if it does not have sufficient information from which to follow up on such report.

Anonymous reports can be made to the following parties:

- Title IX Coordinator
- Office of Equity/Diversity Services
- Dean of Students
