

Urban Studies Program Fall Lecture

WHY BUILDING NEW SPORTS STADIUMS MAKES THE RICH RICHER, AND THE POOR POORER

October 28th, 2016
2:00 pm – 3:00 pm
Greene Hall

Light refreshments to follow
Free & open to the public

SEAN DINCES

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE
LONG BEACH CITY COLLEGE

Sean Dinces is the former holder of the Allan H. Selig Chair in Sport and Society at UW-Madison. He is currently finishing a book on the history of professional sports stadium development in Chicago since 1980.

Sponsored By: UWM College of Letters & Science, Henry W. Maier Fund, UWM Center for Economic Development, UWM Department of History, and Urban Studies Programs

If you have special needs requiring assistance, please call the Urban Studies Program office at 414.229.4751

